Fads Almost as Important as the Fashions They Accompany

FADS OF THE MOMENT.

Ranking in importance, as well as in variety, with the fashions of the day, are the fads that accompany them—the fads that decide that you shall carry a small coin purse this season instead of innumerable dangle; that dictate the precise angle at which your veil will be worn, or the exact moment of the day when your coat must be buttoned instead of flyaway, as with nineteenth century shoppers nowadays.

It is only the woman on the inside, however, who seems to know of these things, at least for several months after they have been regulations of the Paris world. Yet one is regarded as quite "out of it" who all unconsciously slips into an error that a year ago, or a season ago, would have been the only possible thing to do.

Glove fads are perhaps more outlandish than any others, and are more given to change. Just now gloves are being worn very little, never after 6 o'clock. This does not mean that milady has an economical bent—certainly not. Moreover, were one to invade her glove cases one probably would find in them the same array that she required when each new party required a new pair of gloves, for there are a few persons in the world who are still haughty about wearing cleaned gloves. She must have hand-carried them, but after 6 o'clock she positively must never wear them. At dinners, the theatre or the opera one does not see one woman in ten wearing gloves.

In consequence milady pays more attention than ever to her hands. A strenuous course of massage, cold creaming and bleaching is gone through daily, and the nails likewise are submitted to special treatment so that they will be as pink and as polished as the most exacting crank could wish. For the latter, a new fad has taken hold of the feminine world. The nails are varnished over with a brilliant glaze that is warranted to last—and really does—for a week or longer. It is of a very deep pink. Applied with a brush, the glaze does not adhere to anything but the nail, so that if a little is brushed on the finger it does not matter.

Must Display Jewels.
 The hands made up, the next question regards the jewels that must be worn to show off their beauty. Some women persist in the habit of loading their fingers down with rings of every style, four or five on a single finger, and occasionally one on the thumb. As a rule, every possible variety of jewel is seen on the hand of a woman who cares for all this ornamentation. If she will be in perfect taste, however, she will lessen the number both of rings and of the stones this season. It is now considered more artistic to wear only two or three rings, and these containing not more than two kinds of stones. Stones should match the costume as far as possible—sapphires with a blue gown, pearls with black, although any jewel shows off with equal advantage with that somber hue; emeralds, with the popular shades of green, etc. The latter gem is the season's rage, and is frequently used in conjunction with pearls, but only where the emerald is of unusually large size; otherwise a simpler setting is preferred.

Perhaps you have noticed on the little finger of the gloveless right hand a tiny ring, attached to which is a chain and a tiny clasp or clasp. This is intended to hold a filmy lace handkerchief. Some of these rings and holders are elaborately jeweled, but if preferred they may be of the plainest gold. They are pretty and coquettish looking and likewise draw attention to the hands, which is one way of looking at it when you have labored long and ardently to make them soft and smooth.

The banishing of evening gloves does not mean that long gloves are not being worn. The afternoon frocks and many of the tailored suits are made with elbow or three-quarter length sleeves. However, if one would be ultra smart, one does not wear elbow gloves with white, any other pale shade finds preference over that.

THOUSAND FLOWER DESIGN.

There isn't a housewife who doesn't long for drawers and drawers of hand-worked linen for her house, and yet there are some who have so little time for embroidery that the linen drawer boasts very few pieces. The question, then, is to find quickly worked but effective designs, so that when one has a few moments to devote to stitchery one can make the most of them. Thousand flower embroidery sounds frightfully elaborate, but it is simple to the last degree and can be worked up in a few hours, with the exception of course of the button-holed edging of the centerpiece, which always takes more or less time.

A thousand flower design is one that resembles a tiny sun, and looks not unlike a daisy. You have seen such centerpieces, to be sure. Each petal is composed of one stitch. It is a simple straight, single thread radiating from the center of the flower to the end of the flower. They should be worked with heavy mercerized or rope silk. Sometimes, upon other backgrounds than the conventional linen, this thousand flower is worked in colored worsteds with great effect. Such a centerpiece, with a wreath or row of these flowers about the entire edge, can be most beautifully made up of pastel shades. The flowers can also be made up in white, but the stitch is so simple that a color is needed to bring the work out. The tiny, spike-like leaves of the thousand flower are worked with the same stitch as the thousand flower. The center of the flower is usually worked in French knots either close together or scattered.

It is surprising how many useful and beautiful articles can be made from the thousand flower design—bureau scarfs, buffet covers, centerpieces, tray cloths any number of beautiful things. This simple stitch is used in colors for the dining room, where a more elaborate stitch could not.

MAKE WORK EASIER

Ogden People Are Pleased to Learn How It Has Been Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties. With a constantly aching back; With annoying urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills have made work easier.

So thousands have gratefully testified. They're for bad backs. They're for weak kidneys. Ogden people gratefully recommend Doan's.

Mrs. Charles W. Adam, 2717 Quincy Ave., Ogden, Utah, says: "Heavy lifting at my work was responsible for trouble I recently suffered with my kidneys. I strained myself and it tended to bring backache and a return of the old complaint I had suffered some years previous. My back became lame and tender and a dull ache there constantly annoyed me. When I tried to lift, sharp pains caught me across my back and a feeling of weakness came over me. The kidney secretions were also unnatural and painful so that I knew my condition was serious. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Culley Drug Co., and five boxes brought a cure."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Adam had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. (Advertisement)

WHOLE SOME CANDY.

Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in eight of cold water. To two cupfuls of granulated sugar add eight tablespoonfuls of water and heat until sugar dissolves. Add gelatin slowly to syrup and let it stand until cool. Add pinch of salt and flavor to taste. Beat with an egg, whip until stiff, and then with a spoon until soft enough to settle into a sheet. Pour into buttered tins, dusted thickly with powdered sugar and cool until it does not stick to the fingers. Cut into squares and roll each square in powdered sugar. This makes a wholesome form of marshmallow candy much liked by the little ones, and which they can eat with more or less freedom.

PROMINENT GREEK IS DEAD AT BUTTE
 Butte, Mont., May 17.—Theodore J.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children
 In Use For Over 30 Years
 Always bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Stalkos, for three years Greek consul for Utah, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming, died suddenly today of bowel trouble. Consul Stalkos was 39 years old, had been in the intermountain states fifteen years and had accumulated a modest fortune. During the Balkan states trouble he was successful in organizing Greek volunteers in great numbers.

Plans for a monster funeral are being made by countrymen.

THE BUTTERFLY DANCING GOWN

The butterflies are made of black lace, darned with silk and trimmed with jet, and are placed at the ends of a black gauze scarf. The dress is of rainbow taffeta with a plain kimono waist, having one shoulder strap of black velvet ending in a bow at the back.

The skirt consists of spinal flounces and an "apron" of the silk opening at the side over a skirt of carelessly pleated voile.

VINCENT ASTOR SAILS WITH BRIDE

New York, May 18.—Vincent Astor, much improved in health, according to his friends, has sailed away from New York with his bride for a short sea trip.

On board his yacht, the Naoma, Mr. and Mrs. Astor came to New York from Rhinebeck on Saturday and on Sunday the yacht steamed out to sea.

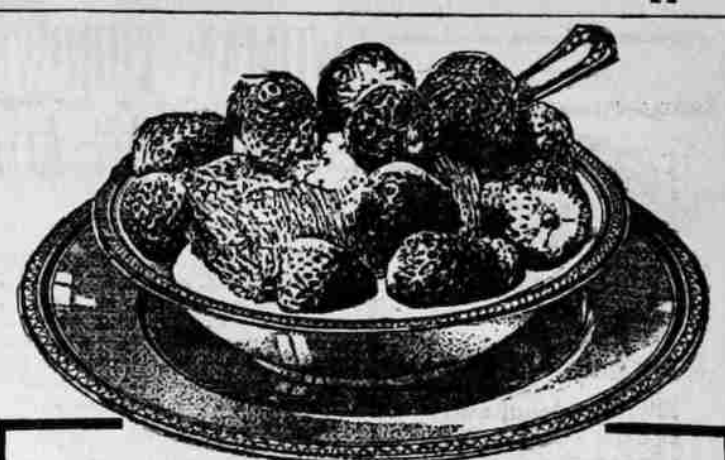

SENATOR STONE TOLLS SPEECH

By WINFIELD JONES
 Washington, May 17.—The inconsistency of the Democratic party has been strikingly illustrated during the debate in the senate on the bill providing for the repeal of the free toll provision of the Panama canal act. Senator Stone of Missouri is chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations. In a remarkable speech recently delivered on the floor of the senate, attempting to justify the surrender to Great Britain, Senator Stone declared:

"No foreign country is making any effort or is in any wise attempting to exercise an influence, so far as I

 The coat is of a fleecy white material with stripes and buttons of bright yellow. There is a single seam over each shoulder.
 The skirt has the new long tunic of white serge with a longer skirt of taffeta showing beneath it.

SHREDDED WHEAT and Strawberries

Nothing so delicious, nothing so easily digested, nothing so easy to prepare. The filmy shreds of cooked wheat take up and neutralize the fruit acids, retaining all the delicious flavor of the berries.

know, intended to affect the legislation on which we are engaged. So far as I am advised all foreign governments have been standing aloof with hands off since the passage of the act of 1912."

Contradicts President.

Here is the authority of the Democratic chairman of the committee on foreign relations of the senate that no other foreign government outside of Great Britain has made any protest. This is directly in contradiction to what the president endeavored to convey to congress. It is wholly at variance with what many Democratic leaders have declared. It demolishes many of the arguments so far advanced.

Senator Stone went further and declared that the coastwise exemption provision is not in violation of any treaty. It would appear to be necessary for some one to synchronize the foreign policy of the White House with that of the senate committee on foreign relations.

One of the strongest speeches against repeal heard during the debate was that of Senator O'Gorman of New York, Democratic chairman of the senate committee on international affairs. Senator O'Gorman declared: "I have never bolted a Democratic candidate nor a Democratic platform and I do not intend now to take my place with the repudiators of party pledges. The party platform is the plighted word of men of honor declaring what their policies will be if they attain power. It is either that or a shifting, dishonest, unconscionable pretense whereby a confiding electorate is misled."

ENVOY NAON AT NIAGARA FALLS

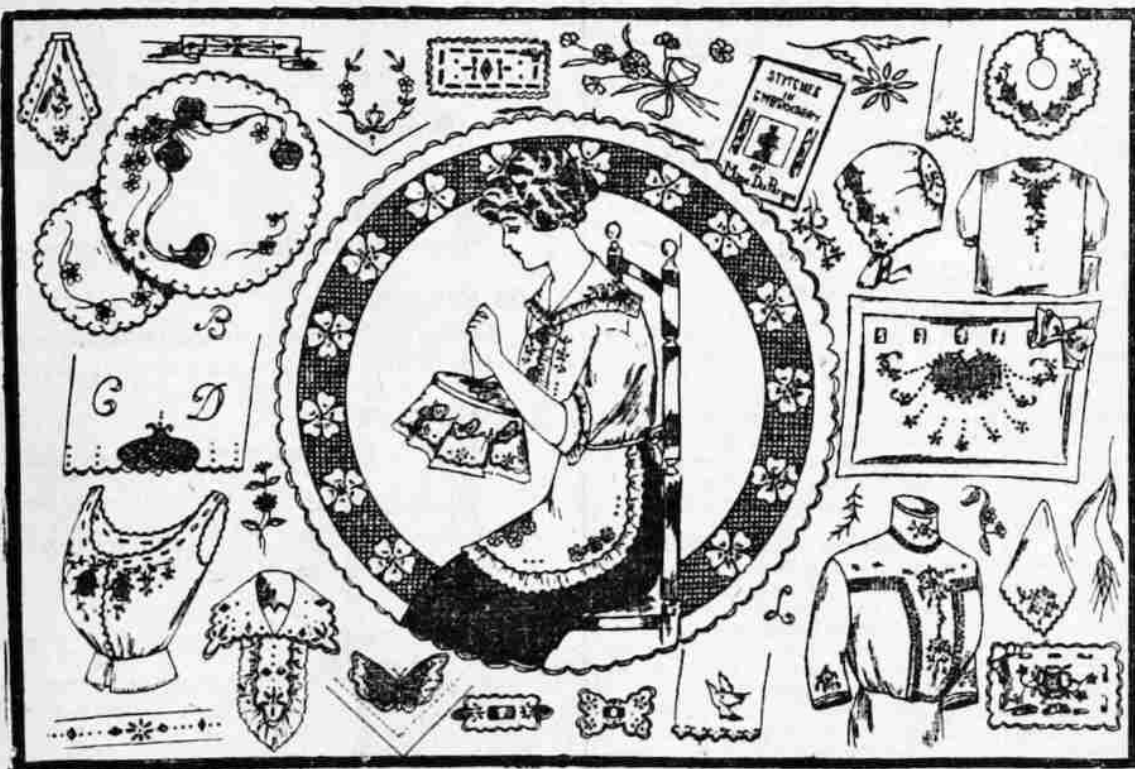

Buffalo, N. Y., May 18.—Romulo S. Naon, Argentine minister, first of the South American mediators on the Mexican problem, reached here today.

Robert F. Rose, state department representative met him and took him to Niagara Falls, Canada, by automobile.

The purpose of Dr. Naon's early arrival is to complete the plans for the conference which will begin with the Mexican and American delegates on Wednesday.
